

Ari Kerstein
Senior Data Analyst
Brigham and Women's Hospital

Ari is a data analytics specialist with over six years of experience helping healthcare organizations improve patient care and operational efficiency. Ari's work focuses on data visualization, statistical modeling and data-driven web applications. He is passionate about creating a healthcare environment in which data is front and center for clinical and operational decision making, and in which leaders can leverage insights that might otherwise go undetected. Ari holds a Bachelor degree from Williams College and a Master in Business Administration from Suffolk University.

Ari currently serves on the board of the Williams College Boston Alumni Association, which programs social, networking and volunteer events for Williams alumni in the greater Boston area. He has previously volunteered with Boston Children's Hospital's Walk for Kids and Project Bread's Walk for Hunger.