

Callie MacDonald
Student
Brandeis University

Callie has worked for South Shore Stars since the age of 15. In 2016 she went to Brandeis University to study politics and play softball. She recently completed an internship with the Scottish Parliament, where she wrote her thesis project on the progress made by Scottish Parliament to improve child rights in court.

Callie currently splits her time between school, working as a coordinator for Brandeis Alumni Weekend, running a double Dutch club at Randolph Community Middle School through Stars, and coaching middle school girls' softball. Beginning this fall, she will be volunteering at the Brandeis Student Sexuality Information Center. After graduating this December, Callie hopes to attend law school so that she may serve her community through practicing law.
