

Hannah Pearson
Hatchery Manager
Island Creek Oysters

Hannah grew up in Warren, RI and has been at Island Creek Oysters for over five years. It is no surprise that she ended up a marine biology major with her family's deep roots in maritime history and her love for the ocean. She joined Island Creek when they were starting a hatchery and has helped transform it into one of the most successful hatcheries in New England. Hannah's work at Island Creek has been featured in the Boston Globe and on Vogue.com.

Hannah enjoys volunteering for Island Creek's Foundation, running the Duxbury Middle School Aquaculture Club during the school year. She has dedicated time in Zanzibar, Tanzania to help establish a clam hatchery in order to create a sustainable food source and industry. Hannah's passion for aquaculture and education drives her to produce over 25 million oyster seed each season.